Fortini, Peter; Barakat, Richard

Genetic algebras for tetraploidy with several loci.

Authors’ summary: “The algebra of gamete multiplication corresponding to a population of autotetraploids which differ at $n$ loci, each with an arbitrary number of alleles, is proven to be a genetic algebra, irrespective of the mode of segregation of the $n$ loci.”

© Copyright American Mathematical Society 1983, 2015